QUOTE OF THE DAY

"Lives were being ruined and few hands were raised in help. Since when do you have to agree with people to defend them from injustice?" – Lillian Hellman

"As our nation marks Juneteenth and its significance to our American culture, let's also remember that the arts have the ability to represent what we cannot express in any other way; Struggle and freedom have always been intertwined, but remember that one path through struggle is acknowledging it, whether through spoken words, music or song, visual art or other art forms. With gratitude for the freedom to express ourselves, we can create healing through the arts from those struggles." – Nolen Bivens

"If you only read the books that everyone else is reading, you can only think what everyone else is thinking." – Haruki Murakami

"Books and movies are like apples and oranges. They both are fruit, but taste completely different." – Stephen King

"I don't have to look far to find treasures. I discover them every time I visit a library." – Michael Embry

"To find a form that accommodates the mess, that is the task of the artist now." – Samuel Beckett

"If truth is beauty, how come no one has their hair done in a library?" – Lily Tomlin
